Rotary in New Zealand

What a great speaker last week - Stacey Roche who is an Allsports Halberg Trust Disability Sport Advisor was an inspiration and put the Halberg Sports Awards in a new light in terms of the money raised from the awards and how it helps people with a disability. The Halberg Disability Sport Foundation provides support and training for schools on how to develop and deliver inclusive sport and physical activity and recreational opportunities. The Trust provides school teachers and staff with the skills to encourage the participation of physically disabled people in sport and recreation from school athletics days, PE classes to camps.

Alan Pattison supplied the following article from the Waitakere College Newsletter as an example of the work that All sports do.

WIATAKERE STUDENTS HELP SECURE NATIONAL TITLE

For the first time Wheelchair Basketball was included in the programme at the New Zealand Junior Disabled Games held in Cambridge, with the Auckland Youth Team taking the title by remaining undefeated on the day. The Auckland team is dominated by a strong Waitakere College contingent, the team is fortunate to have on board the NZ under 23 wheelchair coach Dave Sherriff (a fellow westie) and Auckland Wheelbreakers player Daniella Egle-Bast taking the Waitakere College court every week to train and impact their coaching/playing expertise onto the next generation.
